City

Groningen, Groningen, The Netherlands

About Us

The "Startup Ems-Dollart Region" project aims to promote cross-border cooperation between startups and young entrepreneurs between the North of the Netherlands and North-West Germany. The project partners come from the Ems-Dollart Region (EDR): Inqubator Leeuwarden, Zero to One in Emmen, Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, IT.Emsland, Wirtschaftsförderung und Stadtmarketing der Stadt Emden GmbH, and Hanze University of Applied Sciences Groningen as lead partners.

A well-developed startup ecosystem makes it easier for founders to access significant startup resources. The Startup EDR ecosystem consists of young companies, public authorities, educational institutions, and other public and non-public institutions. The aim is to establish a sustainable cross-border network among all participants. This ecosystem reduces the border's barrier effect and enables participants to cooperate beyond the national border.

The Startup EDR project participates in developing, communicating, and consulting on business startup issues, especially with a cross-border focus, throughout the Ems-Dollart Region. In doing so, existing actors and activities of the regional ecosystems are used in order to involve and link the population and economy on both sides of the German-Dutch border. In this way, the entire Ems-Dollart Region's innovative strength will be stimulated in the long term, and new career prospects and jobs promoted.
